THE VAST ESTATE

Involved in the Great Land Suits Now on Trial in the

UNITED STATES FEDERAL COURT

At Parkersburg—History of the Case—Land in West Virginia That Was Formerly Owned by George Washington—Originally Intended as a Colony for French Nobility.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 27.—The most important land suit ever tried in the federal court in West Virginia is now on before Judge J. J. Jackson. The case is one involving the possession of about 2,500,000 acres of land in Mingo, Logan, Wyoming and McDowell counties, W. Va., Pike county, Ky., and Buchanan and Tanawell counties, Va.

The case was brought by Henry C. King, the present litigation involving the title to 500,000 acres, but it will be followed by separate suits for possession of tracts of 400,000, 320,000, 102,000 and others, respectively, the total aggregating 2,500,000 acres.

A brief history of the land involved is as follows: James Swann, a Boston merchant, and a friend of George Washington, the original owner of much of his land, sold what he could of it and devoted the proceeds to furthering the cause of American independence, himself taking an active part in the war. In return for his services the house of congress of Virginia decided to him all the property he sold and gave him much more lying west of the Alleghenies.

Swann's idea was to found a Utopia in this territory, and he went to Paris and interested many French noblemen in his scheme to colonize the wilderness. The advent of Napoleon frustrated the emigration, and Swann was confronted with a debt of 4,000,000 francs. Unable to pay it, he was imprisoned at St. Peizage, where he remained for ten years. Under the constitution of France at that time the creditor was compelled to support his debtor prisoner in the manner in which he had lived while at liberty, and Swann, though a prisoner behind stone walls, lived otherwise like a prince. His apartments were luxurious in all their appointments and his menu was such as only could be supplied by the most noted chefs in all Paris. He had wines from the south of France and the delicacies a cultured taste demanded. He was daily visited by hismorganatic wife, a noted courtesan.

During the riots in Paris, when the prisons were demolished by the populace, Swann was released, but he was heart-broken, and fell dead on the streets three days after gaining his freedom. When the legislature of Virginia learned of Swann's death, that body appointed John Peter Dumas, of Philadelphia, trustee for the French creditors, who were princes and potentates of great influence. Dumas died and left the estate $800,000 in debt, and the French creditors employed Hon. Josiah Randall, of Philadelphia, father of Hon. Samuel Randall, as attorney, in 1835. Meanwhile the great estate had become forfeited to the state for the non-payment of taxes, but in 1838 the old commonwealth, very mindful of the patriotism and generosity of her protegee, reconveyed it. Mr. Randall died about the close of the war, in 1865, and in 1869 Robert E. Randall, brother of Samuel Randall, was appointed trustee by the United States court. On his removal the debt had grown to $1,500,000. Since then many other trustees have tried unsuccessfully to disentangle the affairs of the estate.

Among the counsel for the plaintiff are Judge Maynard Stiles, of Boston; Colonel E. L. Butterick, of Charleston; H. K. Shumate, of Logan, and Judge Twigg, of Abingdon, Va., while the other side is represented by Judge James H. Ferguson, of Charleston; Hon. W. E. Chilton, of Charleston; Hon. John A. Hutchinson, of Parkersburg; Z. T. Vinson, of Huntington; W. P. Hubbard, of Wheeling; Messrs. Allison Shepherd and others.

WOULD STOP THE WEDDING.

A Crank Who Doesn't Want the Marlborough-Vanderbilt Affair to Come Off.

New York, Oct. 27.—A crank who had come all the way from Baltimore for the purpose of preventing the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding walked into the detective bureau at police headquarters yesterday morning and is now on his way to Bellevue hospital to be examined as to his sanity.

Entering the bureau he handed a card to Captain O'Brien, which bore the name "Sir Oliver de Gyarlas, Baronet, of Lecfausa." The man was tall, shabbily dressed and said he was a Hungarian, and lived at 94 Chase street, Baltimore. He had been in the city only three days and during that time had stayed at Burchard's hotel, on West street. He said he was a bachelor of arts and a master of sciences. He had come from Baltimore, he said, for the specific purpose of preventing the marriage of Consuelo Vanderbilt and the duke of Marlborough. He declared that he was marrying for title and for money, and that she sat all day in her room crying while he pined in his room at the hotel.

"I called at the Vanderbilt mansion this morning," said he, "and also at the Hotel Savoy. I left my cards at both places, but was unable to obtain an interview."

In Baltimore he said that he was considered one of the brightest citizens, and added that the anarchists of that city were after him to make bombs for them. They had followed him to this city, and fearing they would interfere with his plans to prevent the wedding, he had called upon Captain O'Brien for protection. He was taken to Jefferson Market court, and subsequently to Bellevue hospital.

In arranging the settlements preparatory to the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding there were three family lawyers engaged. Colonel William Jay represented Mrs. Vanderbilt; Chauncey M. Depew represented Mr. Vanderbilt, and R. Harding Milward acted for the Duke of Marlborough. It has been reported that Miss Vanderbilt's marriage portion would be $10,000,000. It was learned yesterday that, privately as was Mr. Vanderbilt's settlement upon his daughter, it has a condition attached to it, namely, that the income from the $10,000,000 shall be for the use of the future daughter during her life-time. At her death the principal goes to the issue of her marriage with the Duke of Marlborough. It is supposed that on his side the prospective bridegroom decided to Miss Vanderbilt large estates in England, which have been in his family for years.

WAR OVER VENEZUELA.

Much Talk of It Heard in Washington But Little Ground For It.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Still war talk about the Venezuelan situation has prevailed in Washington, based on articles in local papers, which have finally discovered the fact, announced in these dispatches weeks ago, that the administration has fully made up its mind to maintain the principles of the Monroe doctrine, declaring that no European power shall be allowed to acquire by conquest additional territory on this continent. As the administration has also taken the position that the conflicting claims of England and Venezuela to territory about the mouth of the Orinoco cannot be adjusted except by arbitration without violating the principles of the Monroe doctrine, it has dawned on the local papers that unless England gives way there will be a clash between her and this country before the Venezuelan boundary dispute is settled.

This undoubtedly being the situation, and the administration feeling confident its position is right, and that the country will heartily back it up in standing its ground, the origin of the war scare is plain enough. But it is also plain that it will take two powers, each equally confident of the justice of its own cause and equally determined to maintain it by force if necessary, to precipitate a war.

While it is settled that this government has taken its final position on the pending question, it yet remains to be seen what position England will take. This may be disclosed in the communication now daily expected by the state department from Lord Salisbury's government, or the latter may dodge the main issue by one of those dilatory devices familiar to diplomats, thus leaving the Venezuelan boundary dispute where it has been for many years. It is quite probable England will play for further delay, and avoid bringing matters to a crisis by saying plainly and frankly at this time just what she is prepared to do and how far she concedes the principles of the Monroe doctrine. She will be indefinite and evasive in her communication, and will meanwhile see that things are kept in statu quo on the Venezuelan boundary.

If she takes this course the United States cannot do anything to hurry a settlement of the pending question. That it will be seen that while a clash with England is quite within the bounds of possibility, it can hardly be called a probability. No one here in a position to judge believes England will do anything at this time to endanger a war with this country, especially as she realizes that the United States is ready for it. She will trust to the resources of diplomacy a long time yet before taking a stand which might precipitate a conflict.

The action of the British Guiana authorities in rejecting, by a vote of 10 to 8, the policy urged by British Minister Chamberlain, for arming the Venezuelan frontier with Maxim guns, excite much interest in official and diplomatic circles. It is said to be a most unusual course for the colonial government to reject the advice of the home government on questions of important public policy.

It appears, also, that following the adverse action in British Guiana, the London foreign office cabled directions to Sir Charles Lees, governor-general of the colony, to return to London. It is stated here that this is equivalent to a recall, and the belief is expressed that it indicates the disapproval of the London authorities in the inability of the governor-general to carry out the policy laid down by Minister Chamberlain.

The British ultimatum has not yet reached Caracas. The understanding here is that it was forwarded from London to Berlin, and thence by a steamer from Hamburg to La Guayra. The trip would take two or three weeks, so that its receipt in Venezuela is anticipated within the next few days.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Ex-Premier of England Lord Rosebery is quite active at public functions. On the 17th he attended the opening of the new Liberal club at Scarborough and delivered an address. He attends many banquets and his oratorical powers are greatly in demand. He has recovered his health since he gave up the cares of high office.

There is no evidence of a decline of interest in Paderewski. The sale of tickets for the three concerts to be given by him in New York November 4, 9 and 10, opened Monday morning, and by 3 o'clock over $4,000 worth were sold.

Minchen Becker, three feet six inches high, has secured a divorce from her husband, who is over six feet tall. Minchen Becker was formerly a member of the celebrated Lilliputian company.

Rev. Dr. Stone, of Boston, Mass., is seriously ill, and as he is nine-fifty years old fears are expressed that he may not recover. Dr. Stone is the oldest living graduate of Bowdoin college.

Frederic Harrison has in hand a biography of William the Silent, and is about to visit Holland to study portraits, manuscripts, sites and books, connected with his history.

King Menelik, the Abyssinian ruler, who was killed by a stroke of lightning, used to boast that he was a lineal descendant of King Solomon and the queen of Sheba.

M. H. McCarthy, a Michigan boy, now in Chicago, is making a $10,000 overcast for General Torrance, a millionaire speculator. The collar will be of Russian sable.

The new bronze statue of Gen. Devens, of Massachusetts, now on exhibition in the Boston Art museum, is by the well known sculptor, Olin L. Warner.

Louise Michel has a scheme of founding a home in England for political refugees from the continent out of the profits of an American lecturing tour.

BELLADONE.

All Sorts of Local News and Gossip from the Glass City.

Dr. D. W. Boone was called by the B. & O. authorities Saturday to look after a man on No. 6, westbound, who was taken with a fit. His frothing at the mouth frightened other passengers, who thought the man had gone mad. He proved to be L. F. Gambel, of Ft. Madison, Iowa, and he was a large, fine looking man. He says he was never so afflicted before. The doctor accompanied him to Cambridge, then returned home, the patient appearing all right.

Albert Kratz created some excitement in the neighborhood of Mt. Zion by returning to his own family there after remaining with his mother's folks in Wheeling, where they have a case of smallpox. All that portion of the county was aroused somewhat over the exposure.

A number of folks from this city will go to Martin's Ferry this evening to attend the opening session of the County Christian Endeavor convention. The programme for this evening is largely made up by persons from this city, but to-morrow's sessions embrace the entire county.

An old ordinance, passed over twenty years ago, imposed a tax of $25 per year on billiard tables and ten-pin alleys. It was never enforced, but was never repealed, and the mayor discovered it the other day and intimates that he will enforce it.

Mrs. Louis Cohen, of the Fourth ward, has returned home from Montgomery, where she was called some time ago on account of the serious illness of her brother, who has fully recovered.

Dr. Tracy, a temperance orator from Chicago, has been holding meetings in the Kiwanis theatre for several nights and on Saturday night the place was filled with a splendid audience.

There will be a Christmas market held at the First Presbyterian church about the 1st of December. Preparations have begun already for it.

Mrs. John Siegel, of the Second ward, returned home after accompanying her daughter to Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Sneaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by Logan Drug Co.'s drug store.

A good recommendation for Simmons Liver Regulator is, that it is purely vegetable and strongly tonic. Then too, it is better than pills because easier to take in liquid or powder and with no griping, while the relief from constipation, biliousness, sick headache and dyspepsia is quick and sure. "I find Simmons Liver Regulator a very safe and valuable family medicine.—Rev. J. M. Rollins, Fairfield, Va."

Keep your eye on Pearline "ads."

Even if you use it already, you'll find hints here and there that will greatly help you. And there isn't a man, woman, or child but can be helped by Pearline.

All these advertisements are meant for the good of Pearline, of course—to show you the best and easiest and cheapest way of washing and cleaning, and to lead you to use it. But if they do, they will have helped you far more than they will have helped Pearline. You have more at stake. All the money you could bring to Pearline, by using it, wouldn't be a drop in the bucket to the money you'd save by it.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, honest—send it back.
